THE DISTRICT LINE.

A letter from Washington to the Richmond Times, says: There is nothing in the statement published in the New York dailies that it was probable that the President would be called upon to settle the boundary dispute between the State of Virginia and the District of Columbia. It is true that some time ago threatened habeas corpus proceedings to test the jurisdiction of the Alexandria county court in a criminal case on trial in that court raised the question of the title to the property known as Alexander Island, on which the Old Dominion race course is located. Judge Kimball and other Washington lawyers expressed the opinion that by the retrocession act this property being on an island was ceded by the State of Virginia to the District of Columbia. The case was referred to the department of justice, and United States District Attorney Birney was requested to examine into the matter and report to the department. This he did, giving as his opinion that the island rightfully belonged to the District, and that a suit should be brought in the United States Supreme Court to establish the title. This suit he was ordered to bring forthwith, but as the United States Attorney for the District of Columbia is not entitled to appear in the Supreme Court of the United States the matter was again referred to the department of justice, where it now rests. Solicitor-General Conrad is of the opinion that the District does not possess the shadow of a title to the property, and that the suit will question not only the title, but the title to the property, and that the suit will be settled by the United States Supreme Court, and as the State of Virginia will hardly relinquish possession of any portion of her domain without a struggle, the suit if it is ever brought, will be an interesting one.

A WOMAN IN FLAMES.—Shortly after a bitter quarrel with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. H. Brown, Mrs. Elizabeth Conick, of Philadelphia, was mysteriously and perhaps fatally burned at her home about 5 o'clock Thursday evening. After the quarrel between mother and daughter Mrs. Brown hastily left her own and her mother's home. She had only just entered the next-door neighbor's house when piercing shrieks came from Mrs. Conick's dwelling. Before anybody could rush to her rescue Mrs. Conick, who is a woman of 57, ran, a literal pillar of flames, into her door yard, still uttering the most heart-rending cries. From head to foot she was enveloped in flames. Several boys, who were passing, happened to reach the yard ahead of Mrs. Brown and the neighbor. The boys' rubber overcoats were wrapped about the burning woman to smother the flames. They were successful, but not before Mrs. Conick had been terribly roasted and her clothing reduced to ashes. A policeman was notified, and had the sufferer removed to the Samaritan Hospital in the patrol wagon. The origin of Mrs. Conick's distressing accident is a mystery which baffles the police. No lamp was lighted in the house, and the fire in the stove was nearly burned out at the time. Mr. Brown said she could throw no light upon the subject. A child of Mrs. Brown's, about 7 years old, stated, however, that his grandfather put a piece of lighted paper on the floor and stood over it until she caught fire.

VERY SAD AFFECTION.—Miss Ollie Haley, one of the very bright and attractive young ladies of the Lincoln neighborhood, is hopelessly blind. Her affliction is not only sad, but is also very peculiar. At the time of the transit of Mercury last autumn, she viewed that interesting spectacle through a piece of smoked glass, and when she awoke next morning she could not see. Not recovering her sight she was soon taken to Washington for treatment, and one of her eyes was removed, in the hope of saving the other but without avail, and it is now thought that the other eye will have to be removed. A purse is being made up at Lincoln for the purpose of sending her to an institution at Staunton, where she will be educated. She expects to leave for that place soon. This is, indeed, a very sad case, and one that ought to meet with hearty liberality from those who can afford to render aid.—Lowdown Telephone.

A severe rheumatic pain in the left shoulder had troubled Mr. J. H. Loper, a well-known druggist of Des Moines, Iowa, for over six months. At times the pain was so severe that he could not lift anything. With all he could do he could not get rid of it until he applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm. "I have made three applications of it," he says, "and have since been free from all pain. He now recommends it to persons similarly afflicted. It is for sale by L. Stabler & Co.
